

LAW01 - Scholarship Application Form

Scholarships are awarded by a committee that exercises its discretion to award scholarships to deserving applicants after a careful consideration of the relative academic merit and the relative financial need of all applicants. Applicants are advised that scholarship funding is limited and that scholarships are awarded on a competitive basis. Unfortunately, this means that there will inevitably be applicants who are both academically meritorious and have financial need who may, nevertheless, not be awarded a scholarship.

Note:

- Any application that is incomplete, late or does not include all required supporting documentation will not be considered.
- Recipients of these scholarships may not be expected to perform any work duties in return for any scholarship, if awarded.

Academic Merit

Note:

Academic merit is a criterion for all scholarships, grants and bursaries awarded by the Faculty of Law.

The following indication of how the Committee understands 'academic merit' is provided to assist you in determining what information might be relevant in this regard.

Academic merit encompasses, but is not limited to, past academic performance, as evidenced by marks obtained in previous qualifications. While past performance is obviously an important consideration in assessing academic merit, there are other factors that are important in an overall assessment of academic merit.

These other factors may include:

- an applicant's academic advantages or disadvantages; an applicant's class ranking in each year of study;
- an applicant's general ranking relative to applicants from previous years;
- whether an applicant's performance improved progressively through the degree,
- the nature of the degrees or qualifications previously obtained;
- an applicant's family's academic background (eg whether the student's parents and grandparents obtained a tertiary education, and if so, in what discipline and at what institution);
- an applicant's age and professional experience before undertaking postgraduate study.

Applicants may also bring to the committee's attention other factors they consider relevant to an assessment of academic merit.

An assessment of academic merit requires consideration of various factors, and no one factor is necessarily decisive. The various factors are considered collectively on the basis of all information provided by an applicant. In addition, where financial need is a relevant criterion (see below), academic merit and financial need must both be considered, and neither one nor the other will necessarily be decisive in determining the award of a scholarship.

Please provide information, in addition to your academic transcripts and academic references, which may assist the scholarships committee of the faculty in assessing your academic merit with reference to the above.

Financial Need

Note:

Financial need is a criterion for some scholarships, grants and bursaries awarded by the Faculty of Law.

If you are applying for a scholarship the award of which is based, in part at least, on consideration of financial need, please indicate why you need financial assistance to undertake or continue your course of postgraduate study.

Have you applied for and/or been awarded any financial assistance towards your academic studies [e.g. scholarship, bursary or financial aid]? If so, please provide details.

Income and Expenditure

Please provide a comprehensive breakdown in South African Rand of your personal income and expenditure for the one year period (January – December) for which you are applying for these scholarships

Income	Amount	Expenditure	Amount
Parents/guardian/spouse		Academic fee
Employment (FT/PT)		Board and lodgings
Bursaries/scholarships		Books
Loans		Transport and sundries
Other:		Other:

TOTAL		TOTAL

Other Criteria

Note: Some scholarships, grants and bursaries have additional criteria.

Examples of these scholarships are:

- The Ethel Walt Scholarships, one of the criteria for the award of which is, '... proven community involvement of some kind and commitment to engaging with community issues after graduation',
- The Basil and Con Corder Scholarship, one of the criteria for the award of which is, '... having displayed a concern for the wider community through service individually or in voluntary organisations.'

If you are applying for a scholarship that is awarded on the basis of additional criteria, over and above those of academic merit and financial need, please provide the information that will enable to committee to assess your eligibility and the merit of your application for these scholarships.
